Opening by chairperson
Everybody displayed a positive attitude towards the project, no personal issues were discussed, the conversation felt natural and help was offered to those in need of any type of support.

Minor aspects regarding the meeting
Tudor missed the first 20 minutes of the discussion and, therefore, a new minutetaker was appointed, Chris.

[Agenda point 1] – Git familiarity
All team members were asked whether they understood the way Git is to be used in order to fulfill the projects' requirements so as to avoid any major, possibly destructive, pushes to the main branch.

[Agenda point 2] – Spring & JavaFX
All members set up their environments and are ready to get to work. Some of them even started coding, although there is still no work to be shown to the TA.

[Agenda point 3] – Meaningful Merge Request by the end of the week
Everyone agreed to take a day off coding in order to study the material and really get the gist of it, afterwards, on Wednesday, there will be a meeting and the first steps will be made.
All people have been advised to start working on Tuesday so as to have 3 extra days towards completing a decent Merge Request which would reflect their contribution and what is to be expected in the future.

TA interaction

Our teaching assistant answered all questions, clarified what the final examination will consist of, gave us significant advice regarding the order in which our tasks are to be tackled. He even provided us with platforms to do research on and websites to check out.
